

Dr. Nimisha Kalia

Dr. Nimisha Kalia received her M.D. from the University of South Florida College of Medicine. She completed her internship and residency in Internal Medicine at the Greenwich Hospital/ Yale New Haven Program, where she served as the Chief Resident her final year. Dr. Kalia then completed her Master in Public Health (M.P.H.) at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health and her Master in Business Administration (M.B.A.) at the Johns Hopkins Carey School of Business.

Dr. Kalia currently serves as Assistant Professor of Medicine in the Johns Hopkins Department of Medicine and the Interim Director of the Johns Hopkins Division of Occupational Medicine. She is also Adjunct Assistant Professor at the Bloomberg School of Public Health.